Know-Nothingism had its rise in New York and Boston; and at the polls in every free State in the Union, foreign born cit zens and Catholies were banned, in the success of that organization. It swept over the North with resistless power; and had not the gallant Wise beaten it back in Virginia, it would certainly have driven all who chose to worship God according to he formulas of the Roman Catholic hurch, and all who had the misfortune to e born in Germany or Ireland, from the onntry of their nativity or adoption, and empelled them to seek a city of refuge in

Wass gave the death blow to Know Nothingism in Virginia, and the mad crusade against foreigners and Catholics was hecked; but the spirit of intolerance and exclusiveness on which that order was ased, still survives, and to-day the Gernau, the Irish, and the Catholic are hated as intensely by the New England Puritan as they were in 1854 and 1855.

The Battle of Bethel-Another Account-5,300 Men Engaged.
The following, from the Baltimore co. shows that the attacking force at Bethe was 5,200 men. It gives some details that will be read with interest:

FROM FORTRESS MONROE—THE BATTLE AT BETHEL.

The steamer from Old Point, this morning, orings some additional perticulars of the fight at Bethel, on Monday, from which it appears that it was even more disastrons to our forces than the first accounts stated. The sed mistake between the regiments, their firing upon each other, and the re-reat of the Albany Regiment from Colonel Senedix's Regiment, all took place before applied. It was just at day reak when seneral Butler heard of it, and ordered here extra regiment, and the regiment when the color of the regiment. General Butler heard of it, and ordered three ether regiments namely—those of Colonel Allen, Colonel Carr, and Colonel McChesney—to advance on Bethel, in support of Colonel Townsend's Albany Regiment. They did so; joined the Germans and Zeuavea at the Intersection of Yorkstown with the road from Newport News, and the whole column, 5,680 strong moved forward in the fellowing order:—

The Zenaves, Colonel Duryea, 986 men.
The Albany Regiment, Colonel Townsend, 775 men.

The German Regiment, Colonel Bene-ix, 968 men.

Colonel Allen's Regiment, 958, Colonel Carr's Regiment, 948 men. Colonel McChesney's Regiment, 972 mer Fires.—The old Cambridge distillery, at Richmond, Indiana, was utterly destroyed by fire last Friday night. The fire was communicated by the explosion of gas. The loss is estimated at about $10,000. It was owned by Abner Bond and F. Johnsonbangh. No insurance.

A fire was discovered in Mr. Sam. Patterson's stable, Jeffersonville, on Friday evening, which entirely consumed the building. His family horse, buggy and several hogs were also burned. It was the work of an incendiary.

The papers announce that "Major-General Banks," who is stationed at Baltimore, has caused several columbiads and forty-two pounders to be brought to bear on the city. The same account adds:

"The populace are irritated by the presence of northern troops, but the conciliatory programme enunciated by General Banks removes all apprehensions."

General Pierce at once ordered the ar tillery to be brought up, and Lieut. Greble gallantly advanced to the front, with his battery unlimbered, and got his guns in position. He fired a number of snots at position. He fired a number of snots at what seemed to be the enemy's battery, but made no impression whatever upon it. The enemy continued to pour in a rapid fire from their guns, of which there must have been foriy, all admirably served, and each shot telling with fearful effect. Being protected by their entrenchments, not only the men, but even the guns of the enemy, were concealed, and our troops did not so much as get a sight of their enemy. The supposition that Col. Magnuder was in command of the enemy is incorrect, as he is at Manassas Gap.

Satisfied that he was making no impression on the enemy's works, and seeing his own men and the infantry regiments on each side of him being mower down like grass, yet receiving no order to retreat, lieut. Greble determined to draw his men out of fire, and accordingly, exclaiming that it was madness to remain, he ordered his guns to be spiked, and intended to order a retreat. As he was in the set of spiking the gun nearest to him, a ball from a rifled cannon struck him on the forehead, killing him instantly. A retreat was then sounded, and the regiment left the field in good order, and returned to Fortress Monroe. The battle is said to have lasted three hours.

The killed and wounded were brought hours.

The killed and wounded were brought off the field, and the latter taken at once to the hospital.

Gen. Butler declares that he will take the lattery at all hozards, but it is doubtful whether another attempt will be made immediately. It will be necessary for the next attacking party to have heavy artillery and plenty of it—at least forty guns of large enlibre—and the storning party must be prvided with some facilities for crossing the creek. It is easy to censure General Pierce, and to say he ought to have carried the battery at the point of the bayounet. But how could be get across the creek? Besides, the battery is masked behind thick clumps of busines. However, it must be taken.

When that one is silenced, Gen. Butler will find other formidable works at York-tong and its leavent and the county of the lattery at the grade of the lattery at the party is masked behind thick clumps of busines. However, it must be taken.

When that one is silenced, Gen. Butler will find other formidable works at York-town, and all along up the banks of York and James rivers, which were described in my fetters to the Enquirer ten days ugo, and are laid down in the map of the seat of war which you published a week ago. Gen. Butler was no doubt right in waiting for 20,000 men before he began to make his demonstrations.

But justice to Gov Ma-goffin (who has been so violently assailed) demands that I should make a statement of the transaction so frequently referred by you. After the proclamation of Mr. Lincoln, illing upon the State of Kentucky for men or the purpose of subduing the rebels and tors of the South, as he pleases to term traitors of the South, as he pleases to term them, which demand was promptly refused by Gov. Magoffin, that refusal being sanctioned by you and indorsed by sever eighths of the people of Kentucky, Gov. Magoffin came to Louisville and applied to the banks of this city for a loan of mone; sufficient to arm the State. Some of the banks promptly responded to his demands whilst others refused to loan except on such conditions as they might prescribe such conditions as they might prescribe The Northern troops were then concer-trating at Cairo—no one knowing their in Every citizen of Kentucky scemed anxious that the State should be armed. The people of Cincinnati had seized a quantity of arms and munitions of war belonging to the State of Atkansas, then a submissive State of the Federal Government. It was clear that Kentucky could not procure arms from the North (at that time.) The only point where there was a possibility of getting them was in New Orleans. Gov. Magoffin requested me to go to the South and purchase arms and ammunition. Believing that I could obtain arms in the South, and wishing to place the soldlers of Kentucky in practice and for the soldlers of South, and wishing to place the soldlers of Kentucky in a position to defend the honor and soil of their State, I consented to go. After reaching the city of New Orleans, I found that there were no improved arms in the city for sale; the only arms to be had were the ordinary muskets. I well knew the soldiers of Kentucky would expect improved arms, but they were not to be the soldiers of Kentucky would expect improved arms, but they were not to be had. A Northern foe, as they supposed, threatened to invade her soil, she perfectly powerless, unarmed; I at once bought these muskets, believing that Kentuckians should have some weapons with which they could defend the honor of their State. It was with guns no better than these that Kentuckians had heretofore gained honor and renown upon every battle-field. It is true that these guns were sold a few days before my arrival for six dollars apiece. But it is also true that I was offered fourteen dollars apiece for them by Mr. Morgan, agent of Teanessee. (I gave eight for them)

It is not true that these guns were ever mission true that these guns were ever purchased by George Law. The State armament at Frankfort considers them worth twelve dollars. When I left Kentucky I was told by the first military men in your State that there was not powder enough in Kentucky for ten thousand rounds. I purchased all the powder on sale in New Orleans at reasonable prices. Some these Orleans at reasonable prices. I was invi-ted to address the citizons of New Orleans the evening I arrived. I spoke to ten thousand Louislanians, all eager to know what course the State of Kentucky would take. I told them that she was powerless, a chained giant; but the moment arms could be precured the manufact would take ould be procured the manacles would fall com her hands and she would take as from her hands and she would take as proud a position as any State had taken. I said my mission to the South was to procure arms; that I was accredited for that purpose; that I never intimated, as has been reported, that I was authorized to express the sentiments either of Gov. Magoffin or any one else. I spoke my own sentiments which I have expressed fully and freely, both North and South, privately aud upon the stump, for the past ten years. I may have spoken too sanguine of the course of Kentucky; but it is strange that I should, born and raised in that honored State, her honor and brave y never having been questioned, entertaining the greatest pride, as all the Kentuckians have done in their State? Having lived amongst the people of the South for fifteen years, experiencing unmistakable proofs of their agenerosity, honor, and patriotism, is it strange that I, a son of Kentucky, should dwish to unite her destiny with those gallant sons of the South, whom I so much honor and love?

This, gentlemen, is s true statement of This, gentlemen, is a true statement of my agency in purchasing those arms, about which so much has been said. And for this my movements are watched and reported by the contemptible spics about frankfort. I had no motive but to serve my State and a friend (Gov. Magoffin). I have known him long and shall always feel honored by his confidence. I have no wish to take Kentucky out of the Federal Union. GEN. SCOTT BROWN, Adjutant-General Ky. Militia. PETITION OF CITIZENS TO GOV. MAGOFFIN BELLE OMBRE, BALLARD COUNTY, KY. appointed by the North Balard Military Company to inform your Excellency that a few nights ago a detachment of Abolition troops, numbering some two hundred and over, was sent to our neighborhood by the commander at Cairo, for the purpose of arresting and holding as prisoners some ten or twelve gentlemen who had camped in the river bottom for the purpose of fishing and hunting. These gentlemen committed no crime or violated any law. The only offense they can be charged with, is that of being "Southern Rights" men. On their march from the river to the camp they arrested and held as prisoners several of our citizens, thereby depriving them of of our citizens, thereby depriving them of their liberty. These gentlemen left the camp before confidence of President Lincoln and his Government at Washington. It is addressed to Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, and encloses a draft for one thousand dollars, as a part of the pay intended for his services in betraying those confiding portion of the people of Tennessees who have stood by him in support of the maintenance of the Federal Union. We give this letter to the public. It was intercepted in its passage to Johnson, and is now in the Note the remark of Lawrence, that if the information given by this infamous wretch was printed in the Northern newspapers, that "it would be good for ten thousand dol-lars in three days' time." This thousand, however, is given him in order that "he (Johnson) may be sure of something the however, is given him in order that "he (Johnson) may be sure of something at once." The Board has adjourned, to meet again How it is Received. The St. Louis Republican makes this reference to the invasion of the soil of Misouri, by the troops of Illinois: That filinois troops have invaded Missouri, by taking position at Hannibal, we have no doubt. The packet boats of the Keokuk Line have been employed in this business, and at least one regiment has been transported from Quincy. We should like business, and at least one regiment has been transported from Quincy. We should like to know by what authority Governor Yates, of Illinois, dares to direct the Invasion of Missouri by Illinois troops? Who delegated to him the right to make war upon Missouri? The troops having been sworn into the service of the United States, how comes it that he has any control over them at all? Major-General McClellan is in Illinois, and has the exclusive control of all into the service of the United States, how comes it that he has any control over them at all? Major-General McClellam is in Illinois, and has the exclusive control of all the troops in his department, and he alone was competent to order a movement of the troops in any direction. We make no doubt that this movement against Missouri has been made without his knowledge, and by an unauthorized official, and trust that he will do justice to the loyal people of this State by recalling them from our border.

Confiscation and Repudition at the South.—Within the past few days there have been some transfers of bank and other stock owned by Northern parties to residents here, not in the way of setual sales, but as a cover to property which is considered jeopardized by the hostile relations existing between this Confederacy and the Abolition Government at Washington. A case in point occurred yesterday where a party applied to the Mechanics and Traders' Bank to transfer certain shares of stock to himself under a power of attorney transmitted from New York. The President of the Bank entertaining serious doubts as to the propriety and legality of such a transfer, addressed a communication to the Attorney-General of the State, soliciting his opinion in the premises. The answer of this officer is conclusive as to the illegality of the proceeding. He pronounces every negotiation, agreement or contract between a person domiciled within the Confederate States and an alien enemy, such as those must be deemed who are domiciled in the United States, to be absolutely null and void. No interceurse, other than a hostile one, can be tolerated between the poople of the two sections.—The remistance of money for any purpose is unlawful and forbidden Score. there has a bostic of the two sections. the remittance of money for any purpos unlawful and forbidden. Every reader of the correspondence will feel that we are hardly dealt with, and that one consequence of the action of the Washington Government will be to inflict a heavy blow on the commerce of England. Mr. Seward appears to forget American antecdents in international law, and reputdiates all the lessons which the States once taught to Europé, and that, too, sometimes an exceptible. once taught to Europé, and that, too, some-times successfully. Europe is largely in-terested in the impending civil war, and almost as heavily as the belligerent States, themselves, if she is to pay the heavy pen-alties of an interruption to access on the coast by the North, and another on the great highways of the sea by the South. It may be necessary, sometimes in warfare great highways of the sea by the South. It may be need sary, sometimes, in warfare to proceed to the extent of blockading an enemy's coast; and we did hold, not many years ago, that we might send out privateers in aid of our naval power. But gradually such notions have been softened in their application. Nations are so interlaced commercially as to render it next to impossible to injure an opponent without almost destroying your mend. Specially is this the case with America.

The North may succeed in preventing the shipment of cotton to Europe, and thus the shipment of cotton to Europe, and thus crash the agriculture of the Southern States, but it can only accomplish the feat by an act of injustice, perpetrated under the guise of belingerent rights, which will recoil upon the Northern States in due time. From Frederick, Maryland.

FREDERICK, MD, June 14.—The special agent of the associated press has just returned from Maryland Hights, overlooking Harper's Ferry, which point he left after seven o'clock this evening. The Confederate army had mainly left the place, only about 2,000 remaining. The route of the main body was by turnpike, leading to Charlestown and Sheppardstown, but their precise destination is not known, as they were lost in the distance, and no one in the vicinity was sufficiently informed to state whether they were going.

The work of demolition is nearly complete. The bridge is entirely destroyed, with all the telegraph lines and effices and the rifle factory. No Government property remains except the officer's houses on the hills, back of the town. Only two out of twenty armory buildings were saved.

Major General McClellan addressed the cops at Cairo on the 13th, promising em that they should be the leaders of the reat Western Army, and that ere long hey should have an opportunity to mee

The River is still failing, but not as fast as its commerce, which is at its lowest ebb. In the canal last evening there was some six feet four inches water, with a remarkable change of weather since Saturday, when the thermometer ran up to 89 in the shadé. Last evening it was quite cool.

At Cincinnati and Pittsburg the river is falling fast with only 41/ for water at least evening the same of the falling fast, with only 41% feet water at the latter point Saturday.

More Cincinnati Tricks.—Many our modes Ciscisnary fricks,—Many on readers may not be aware of the fact that the receipts of articles of necessity for our market, via the East and the Cheinnat mailboats, are in very small lots. We may say rather in homepathic doses of the veriest insignificance. The receipts of coffee are by the five or ten bags; the ship mention fancer in loss of tenor twenty bar ments of sugar in lots of ten or twenty barrels, and bacon by the single hogshead, or occasionally two or three hogsheads, and other articles in proportion. Now all this is not only very annoying but very expensive, and a heavy tax upon the consumer, the people, mechanics, laborers, and all the people, mechanics, laborers, and ali who have to depend upon their daily labor for their bread.

The merchants by receiving these articles in such very small lots, and by being Acc., cannot have their stocks accumulated, and of course prices are greatly enhanced. They raise the price in due proportion to the light supply, and cost of getting their goods to market, and of course this falls upon the buyer, or consumer, and is taxed two or three cents per pounds extra, of course. One of these extra charges is the course. One of these extra charges is the permit of the official, or collector of customs of the Higher Law at Cincinnsti. For every shipment said collector charges threaty cons for a written parchment, and of course the smaller the consignment the greater will be the number of permits, and his profits, or pay will be increased. A Louisville merchant who has 100 tags of coffee at Cincinnati will be ten days receiving it, and is compailed to pay the collector two dollars extra for permits, as well as extra drayages, &c. TAKING THE BACK TRACK .- Yesterday Taking the Back Track.—Yesterday the Prioress, a Madison and Cincinnati packet, in charge of Capt. Daic, came down with 310 casks of bacon and 303 barrels of pork for this market. It was partially unloaded, when, by some maneavre that was not fally understood or explained by any party, the crew commenced rolling it back again on the boat, and actually put it all back, and then the boat went back to Madison. back, and then the boat went back to Mad back, and then the boat went back to Mad-ison with the cargo.

The Captain says there was no bill of la-ding for the eargo, and that the unloading and reloading, &c., was all satisfactory to the parties concerned. Well, if they are satisfied, we suppose we have no cause to grumble, but that pile of bacon would have been food eyough to satisfy the hungry of Louisville awark for two or three and night. Louisville a week or two, or three, and might have put down the price, but it was raid hetter-writers:

After crossing a narrow but apparently deep stream, the road deflects somewhat to the left, along its side. Just heyond the bridge the rebels have planted their battery, consisting at least of one 12 pound rifle cannon and two fi-ld pieces. A line of intrenchments then followed the right side of the road, a ditch only being between them.
Their position was excellently chosen.

In the meantime, Lieut-Col. Washburn, with two hundred and fifty men, had, by a wide curcuit, reached the rear of the batwide cureuit, reached the rear of the bat-tery, and it is quite evident that the Confide-rate troops, who it is now determined did not number six-hundred men, were on the point of leaving the field.

So it seems, by their own confession, that the Confederate troops numbered but six bundred, and had but three cannon. The attacking force numbered about five thousand men.

Of the loss of the Northerners, one of the letter writers says:

We occupied a wood by their right flank, and laid down to avoid the fearful fire they kept up for two and a half hours. It was a horrible slaughter; the oldest soldiers were sick at the sight. And another one, a volunteer, writing to his father in New York, complains of their guns, and adds: It is perfect butchery to send us so armed against rifles that carry 400 yards with perfect accuracy. We shall be shot down like sheep, and the hope I had of getting home again is narrowed down to a decimal since the experience of yesterday. I saw six killed and wounded badly, close by me. From all of which we gather, that about five thousand men were embraced in the attacking party; that they attacked about six hundred "rebels" with three or at most four guns posted in batteries : and that they were repulsed with a loss of about five hundred men killed, wounded, and missing.

Who is Gen. Henry E. Read ? This question is sometimes asked relative to the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Fifth District. Gen. READ is not a politician. He has never before been a candidate for office but in a single instance, when he was elected to the Legislature from Larne county. He is a gallant soldier, an honorable, high-minded gentleman, loyal and true, worthy of the confidence of his fellow have put down the price, but it was said the buyer wouldn't given "guarantee," so it was taken back to Madison to spoil.

The nail boat Superior, yesterday, also had a lot of bacon for this market, some fifty or seventy-five casks, and that, too, was taken back to Chedmati, we suppose, from whence it came. Such note are a done:

CHARGE OF TREASON AGAINST A PROM CHARGE OF TREASON AGAINST A PROM-INENT MERCHANT.—Mr. John A. Skiff, Commission and Forwarding Merchant, on Front, between Main and Walmult streets, was yesterday arrested on charge of giving did and comfort to the enemies of the Uni-ted States, by forwarding to them butter in all-kegs, marked as ale, and shipped per Madison packet to Carrollton, Kentucky, and from thence reshipped to Louisville, to care of Tait, Anderson & Co., by whom it was forwarded South. It is also alleged that he has shipped bason and powder as the was low-warded South. It is also alleged that he has shipped bacon and powder as ale via the same route. Mr. Skiff is arrested at the instance of Deputy Collector Pollock, and will have a preliminary examination before United States Commissioner Halliday, at ten o'clock this morning.—[Cin. Enquirer.

REVOLVERS CAPTURED .- One of the Cus-REVOLVERS CAPTURED.—One of the Custom House Inspectors visited the Louisville mailboat at the wharf, on Thursday, to search some passengers, whom he understood had purchased pistols to take South. He took three revolvers from as many men, and observing a foarth very much agitated, the Inspector said, "and I want yours, too." "Tha—there they are," quoth he, trembling in his boots: "ta-take them." The Inspector examined his baggage, and found eleven first class revolvers.

STATE FINANCES.—It is understood that the President of the Bank of the State of Missouri, was waited on, a day or so ago, by an officer of the Home Guard, and gravely told that he must not honor any more of the drafts of the State Treasurer, under pain of the displeasure of the Guard aforesaid. It scarcely needed such a reminder, for it is believed that the balance, one way or the other, did not amount to any "great shakes," and the Bank is not in the habit of suffering over-drafts from any quarter.—[St. Louis Republican.

DRUNK.—Jno. Brown, an old man with a black eye, but no relative of a man of the same name who once went to Harper's Ferry, and then stretched hemp, was arranged on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. Bail in $200 for three months.

Stelling a Pistol.—Daniel Coleman, T.
Counsman and James Baker, three young lads not over ten years of age, were arrested enterged with stealing a pistol and a number of pocket-books from Louis Welman. Welman has a showcase standing on the street, from which they took the pistol and pocket-books. There are a large number of boys running about the streets in this city stealing everything they can get hold of. If that House of Refuge, which has been spoken of for years, was built, we would have a place to send these boys, so that they could be raised up to be useful to the country, but as it is they are bound to go to rain. They were sent to the cave for three months in default of $100 bail.

Michael Morris and Daniel Lear, the other lads, were arrested, charged with trealing $250 from Geo. Benuitt. Lear went into the sicre of Benuitt, jumped on the counter, opened the cash drawer, snatched $250 and them ran. Bail in $100

We thank MeGill, of the Letter Express, for late Nashville papers.

The Government of the Confederate States receive with respect to the suggestion of the State of Maryland, "that there should be a general cessation of hostilities move input place in July next, in order that said body may, if possible, arrange for an adjustment of existing troubles, by means of negotiation, rather than the sword," but is at a loss how to reply, without a repetion of of the language it has used on every possible occasion that has presented itself since the establishment of its independence.

In deference to the State of Maryland, however, it again asserts, in the most emphatic terms, that its sincere and earnest desire is for peace; that whilst the Government would readily entertain any proposition from the Government of the United States tending to a peaceful solution of the pending difficulties, the recent attempts of this Government to enter into negotiations with that of the United States were attended with results which forbid any renewal of proposals from it to this Government.

If any further assurance of the desire of this Government for peace were necessary, it would be sufficient to observe that, being formed of a confederation of sovereign States, each acting and deciding for itself, the right of every other sovereign State to the same self-action and self-government is necessarily acknowledged. Hence, conquests of other States are wholly inconsistent with the lundamental principles, and subversive of the very organization of this Government. Its policy cannot but be peace—pease with all nations and people.
